- Russia Agrees to Work with Ghana on 2,000MW Nuclear Power Plant: Russia and Ghana have agreed to collaborate on a 2,000-megawatt nuclear power plant, aimed at enhancing electricity security and aiding industrialization, as announced at the Russia-Africa Summit by Ghana's Foreign Affairs Minister Samuel Okudzeto Ablakwa. However, important details regarding financing, site selection, and construction timelines are not yet clear. The project's success relies on reliable and affordable electricity delivery, as well as its integration with Ghana's existing nuclear program and energy plans. Additional commitments in defense, agriculture, and education reflect a strengthening bilateral relationship, but the effectiveness of these will depend on future agreements and resource allocation. - Government Has Introduced About 22 Laws to Protect Economic Reforms — Ato Forson: Finance Minister Dr. Cassiel Ato Forson announced the enactment of 22 laws over the last 18 months to solidify the government's economic reforms and ensure their longevity beyond political shifts. At the University of Ghana, he highlighted the vital role of legislative support to avoid the economic difficulties faced from 2022–2024. The government's strategy, which includes new laws and amendments requiring a two-thirds parliamentary majority for changes, aims to legally entrench reforms and ensure policy continuity for stable financial decisions. Dr. Forson emphasized that reforms should be integrated into the government's framework, not reliant on individual administrations. (Norvanreports)
